WHAT ROLES DO CFF STAFF FILL?

Family Support Providers are "someone who has a similar life experience or circumstance to yours. They have engaged in special training and skill development to support you in creating the life you want"- Centre for Innovation in Peer Support

Care coordinators oversee the care plan, implement the wraparound process, communicate with each care team and connect with community resources.

WHAT IS WRAPAROUND CARE?

Wraparound is an intensive, individualized care planning process which, aims to achieve positive outcomes by providing a structured, creative and individualized team planning process. The process focuses on connecting families to their communities along with other supports and services while building capacity within their own families to manage challenging times.

WHAT IS THE CAROLINE FAMILIES FIRST PROGRAM?

The Caroline Families First initiative is a family-driven wraparound model of care that seeks to address the need for more open communication between primary care and community-based mental health services.

This initiative hopes to build a system-wide understanding of families and the importance of truly and whole-heartedly listening to what they say, valuing what they bring to the table, and encouraging other communities to develop similar partnerships that will benefit families.

"I would recommend this program to any family that is concerned for one of their children. I am both thankful and grateful." - Parent

"I love this process, bringing us all together in one place is amazing having the doctors here was truly helpful." - Service Provider

"The wraparound meeting was a great experience for us. We actually saw something happen, and what would have normally taken weeks, even months to get sorted out and agreed to, happened in one hour." - Parent
